J. B. Love Dismisses Case Filed in Justice Congdon's Court Against The Rev. M. E. Borders.

STATEMENT BY MINISTER

Preacher Said He Thought Plaintiff
Who Occupied a Front Pew was Napping During Sermon.

An unusual case which was filed yesterday in the court of John Congdon, justice of peace, wherein J. B. Love, plaintiff, charged that the Rev. M. Edward Borders, who is conducting a revival service at the Nazarene church, hurled a song book at him at the service Wednesday night, was dismissed today upon the motion of the plaintiff. The plaintiff contends that he was sitting on a front seat in the church while the evangelist was preaching and that during the service he closed his eyes at intervals to protect them from the lights on the pulpit. He further states that the evangelist thought that he was asleep and threw a song book hitting him in the chest to arouse him.

Mr. Borders made an explanation of the matter before the audience Thursday night and apologized for any wrong which Mr. Love thought he had suffered.

When interviewed today regarding the incident Evangelist Borders said that he was greatly surprised at the view which had been taken by Mr. Love and that the book was not tossed at him with any intention to do him bodily harm. Members of the congregation declare that Mr. Borders is a dramatic speaker and gesticulates vigorously during his addresses. They assert that the tossing of the book at Mr. Love provoked laughter at the time and that nothing more

RAIN INTERFERES WITH FALL WORK ON THE FARM

Wheat Sowing is Delayed in Some Places—Much Corn is Being Shocked Now.

The showers during the last few days, while coming at a good time, have served to delay fall farm work. Farmers are busy with wheat sowing and in some places the rain has been so heavy that the drills cannot be taken into the fields. A large acreage of wheat has already been sown and the rain is very beneficial to these fields. The wheat is coming up in fine shape and the farmers are pleased with the early prospects. Much corn ground will be sown to wheat this fall and the work of cutting the corn is stopped temporarily in a few places. However, the farmers say that wheat may be safely sown until the fifteenth of this month.

Commissioner's Engineers to Make Complete Inventory of Local Telephone Property.

FOR BASIS OF VALUATION

Figures Presented Thursday Were Procured From Records of The Petitioner Company.

Although no word had been received here today from the Indiana public service commission relative to the date for the third hearing on the petition of the Seymour Mutual Telephone Company for a higher rate schedule, it is generally believed that several weeks will lapse before further evidence can be presented. Edwin Corr, member of the commission, who presided at the hearing yesterday, brought the session to an unexpected close during the afternoon when he found that the report of W. F. Habenev, staff engineer, was based largely on figures which he had procured from the company's records.

Commissioner Corr stated that further progress would be a waste of time until the engineer had compiled a complete inventory of the property. Habenev explained that he was sent here by the commission to secure an estimate of the valuation and that he was in Seymour not more than two days. He said that a week or ten days would be required to make a complete inventory. Under the law the commission must file a copy of the engineer's report with the company which is given twenty days thereafter to accept or reject it. This means that the hearing cannot be held before the latter part of next

LECTURE TO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS CANCELLED

Thomas Brooks Fletcher Finds It Impossible to Give Talk to Business Men Tonight.

Clark B. Davis, secretary of the chamber of commerce, announced this afternoon that the talk which Thomas Brooks Fletcher was to have given to the members of the organization preceding his lecture at the First M. E. church tonight has been cancelled. It is explained that Mr. Fletcher is speaking each day and finds it necessary to conserve his voice whenever possible.

The address which was announced before the chamber of commerce is entirely separate and independent of the lecture to be given here tonight by Mr. Fletcher under the auspices of the City Ministerial Association. The speaker is one of the best known platform men in America and his lecture will be filled with wit and humor, yet he will carry a worth while message to his audience. The advance season ticket sale has been large and a big audience is promised for the first number of the course tonight.

STARTS PROBE IN PITTSBURG

Members Plan to Visit Homes of Strikers and Inquire About Living Conditions.

By United Press
Pittsburg, Oct. 10.—First hand probing of the steel strike was to begin with the arrival of the senate labor committee here today. The committee headed by Senator Kenyon prepared to investigate conditions in the Pittsburg district today. Others planned to go into the mills and question workmen. They will also go in the homes and find out for themselves how families are living. Housewives will be asked whether their husbands' wages are sufficient. Conditions of the foreign workers will be given close attention. Senator Kenyon is convinced that Americanization legislation must be one of the results of the senate investigation.

TO DECIDE FUTURE

Thomas M. Honan, President, Will Call Executive Committee in Few Days for Conference.

YEAR CLOSING THIS MONTH

Many Are Urging That Active Organization be Continued—Relief
Work in Foreground.

Whether or not the Jackson Red Cross will be continued as an active organization, will be decided within a few days by the executive committee. Thomas M. Honan, chairman of the organization, stated that decision must be reached in the near future for if the organization is maintained here it will be necessary to conduct a membership drive early in November when the present year comes to a close.

The matter of disbanding or continuing the Red Cross chapter has not been given serious consideration but the officers will soon be required to report what progress is made towards a membership drive if the organization is maintained. Many are of the opinion that the Red Cross should not be permitted to pass out of existence and are urging that officers be chosen and the work proceed according to the peace time program of the organization.

The continuance of the chapter in this county, it is explained, does not mean that the work will be pursued with such vigor and activity that was manifested during the war when the calls for hospital supplies were heavy and numerous. However, there would be some work for the various committees to do in the way of relief undertakings.

The Red Cross at this time is concentrating its attention on relief work at home and abroad and it is stated that the need for funds is great. If the organization is continued here, the members would be expected to pay their dues for another year so that the chapter would have a good standing.

While some money remains in the treasury of the chapter, it cannot be used for local charity work, according to the belief of some of the officers. It is contended that the money paid in belongs to the National Red Cross and is held by the local chapter as trust funds to be used for particular purposes. Others are of the opinion that if the organization is not continued the money in the treasury could be turned over to local charity or relief organizations to be expended as deemed advisable.

CICOTTE A DISAPPOINTMENT

(By Henry L. Farrell, United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Oct. 10.—Next year's world series is twelve long months away, but there is a hundred per cent certainty that the wild series that wound up yesterday in an orgy of terrific hitting and spectacular fielding will provide fuel enough for a million hot stove leagues until the next big baseball excitement grips fandom a year hence.

Chicago's great balm is the fact that the Sox fought to the finish. After the Red's demoralizing rush that carried them within a game of the title before the Sox could regain their feet, Chicago's fans were a bit uncertain whether they had a fighting ball club after all. But the Sox came back. They found themselves and fought almost to even terms, and were down fighting after a final desperate bid as the last game waned that carried them battling to the end.

High class pitching by the Cincinnati boxmen on their first trials, coupled with a very real punch in the National Leaguers' attack, won for the Reds. And they needed the lead their pitchers gave them at the outset, for every one of the four vic-

OPEN SHOP URGED
BY CAPITAL GROUP

Code of Industrial Relations Presented to the National Industrial Conference.

MANNER OF NEGOTIATION

Deadlock Forecast in Attempt to Effect Settlement of the Strike of Steel Workers.

By United Press
Washington, October 10.—Declaring for the "open" shop, delegates representing capital today presented a code of industrial relations to the national industrial conference in session here.

The national industrial conference voted a recess until 9:30 o'clock a. m. next Tuesday to give the central committee of fifteen time to study and report on the proposals of the labor group that the conference name a board to arbitrate the steel strike which seemingly has caused a deadlock in that body.

"No employer should be required to deal with men or groups of men who are not his employers or chosen by men among them," said the report.

A deadlock on organized labor's proposal for immediate arbitration of the steel strike looms before the national industrial conference today. The deadlock was in the central committee of fifteen to which the arbitration proposal was referred.

The only other business that could come before the conference at this morning's session was receiving eleven proposals prepared by the major group of delegates representing capital. These proposals, under the rules, must be automatically referred to the central committee without discussion. The central committee considered the arbitration proposal all yesterday afternoon and stayed in session until nearly midnight. Then the meeting broke up, the committee-men being unable to agree as to whether they should report with a recommendation for favorable action by the conference.

Labor members of the central committee want to make a favorable report on the steel arbitration proposal, according to information from the committee. Some members representing the capital and public groups opposed it at a late hour last night.

If the committee becomes convinced it cannot reach an agreement, it may report the proposal without action. It cannot pigeonhole it if the rules are obeyed, labor men say.

When the resolution finally gets to the floor, the first big fight of the conference is expected. To pass, it must receive an "aye" vote from the chairman of each of the three major groups. How the chairman shall cast the groups vote is decided by a vote within the group, which must be a majority.

Voting in the public group will be E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, who told the congressional investigating committee he would not arbitrate the strike. Gary today refused to discuss the arbitration proposal before the conference.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

Repatriating Prisoners.

When hostilities ceased there were in the hands of their Teuton captors millions of prisoners of war of all Allied countries, the terrible plight of whom is well known to all the world. Red Cross workers, carrying relief supplies of clothing, medicines and supplementary foodstuffs, penetrated the Central Powers as soon after the armistice as the military authorities would permit, and the work of getting the prisoners started back to their own countries was soon begun. In this photograph a group of these men are seen packed up and restored to something like normal health, awaiting the train that will carry them out of bondage.

years, and affords an average profit which is not excessive in view of the risks that are run. Figures on storage eggs for 1915-1916 show a net loss of 2.2 cents a dozen; for 1916-1917, an unusually prosperous year, the net profits were 5.54 cents a dozen; and for 1917-1918 there was a net loss of 1.42 cents a dozen.

Extravagant charges of manipulation and control of prices are preposterously absurd in view of these seasons of losses. The ups and downs of profits simply indicate the hazards of the game; for the best laid plans of men can not foresee when a warm spell may come which will start the hens to laying, nor, on the other hand, a cold snap that will shut off current production entirely. Year in and year out, as the figures would indicate, the consumer pays but a modest sum for the blessing of cold storage, which takes upon itself, with all risks involved, the task of laying in his winter stores for him.

month or the first of December, unless special concessions are accepted by both sides.

The progress in the case has now reached the point where no further action can be taken until the valuation is fixed by the commission. The other details of the case have been presented to the commission and it was expected that the valuation would be determined shortly after the hearing yesterday. However, the postponement of the evidence will result in another delay.

Habeney, in his testimony, expressed the belief that the tabulation of equipment prepared by the company is not correct in all details. However, he took the figures as the basis and applied the unit of cost which is adopted by the commission. This was not satisfactory to the company. When Commissioner Corr realized that no agreement could be reached he ordered the engineer to return at once and make a complete inventory without reference to the files and records of the company.

The company had intended to place L. C. Griffiths, president of the company, on the witness stand at the hearing yesterday to testify as to the valuation made by the petitioner. However, the hearing closed during the testimony of the engineer and no other witnesses were called. The engineer was not cross-examined by the city's counsel.

BULWARK AGAINST WINTER SHORTAGE

Some Facts About Cold Storage and the Charges of Manipulation and Exorbitant Prices.

Once again the subject of cold storage has come into the limelight of public attention; and this time in connection with the nation-wide search after the cause for the high cost of living.

There can be no argument in behalf of hoarding and holding back food supplies for speculative profits. But this is a matter quite apart from the true and legitimate purpose of cold storage; and, unfortunately, because of the much agitation and damaging publicity that have centered about the subject from time to time, the real service performing function of cold storage has been largely obscured.

Laying In Winter Stocks.

City-wise people, and even country-wise people, have long since forgotten, amidst the conveniences of modern life, that there was a time in the history of our country when "laying in a winter's stock" devolved upon each household individually. Today, one does not even need to remember that eggs are not an all-year-around product; that butter is produced in scant amount in the winter, and cheese likewise. Not a few would be completely surprised to know that even meat production has its seasons of scarcity. The buyer for the household in these days simply goes to the store, any day in the year, expecting to find these and similar commodities on the market.

Are Storages Overstocked?

However, we are told that storage stocks of certain commodities are at the present above the normal as compared with this time last year. It has been computed that the combined excess of a number of important foods in cold and dry storage amount to 19 per cent. While on the face of it this looks like undue hoarding of reserves, yet it must be remembered that comparisons with last year are altogether misleading. Demands for a great number of commodities have increased tremendously. Our exports for June were double what they were a year ago, and 40 per cent of these exports were foodstuffs.

Moreover, our reserves last year were inadequate. Those who recall some of the extraordinary prices of certain foods last winter and spring know precisely what it means to have too small holdings in storage. That we are better prepared for next winter than we were for last should not be used as the basis of a wholesale condemnation of our methods of providing for our future wants.

How Prices Are Determined.

Cold storage has been criticised severely as an instrumentality that lends itself easily to the taking of unfair profits. Without a question its ability to extort has been grossly exaggerated. Storage warehouses are scattered throughout all portions of the United States and their contents are owned by thousands of competing firms and individuals. About half the storage space in the country consists of public warehouses that rent space to whoever wants it, either for small lots or big ones. Tabulated figures of the amounts in storage are gathered and disseminated by the government monthly; and the amounts in holding from month to month figured against what should normally be in storage during those months (or the estimated demand) form the basis for prices.

Some Figures on Profits.

But the best information as to profits in the cold storage business consists of actual figures, and such are published regularly by the federal Department of Agriculture. These show, for instance, that in the season of 1915-1916 butter stored in June and July at an average of 26.64 cents a pound, sold from November to March at an average of 27.45 cents a pound, giving a gross profit of 0.81 cents a pound, or scarcely enough to pay for storage and nothing for net profit or interest on investment. In 1916-1917 the gross profit was 7.79 cents a pound, and in 1917-1918 it was 5.86 cents. These gross amounts must cover storage charges and interest on the money tied up for several months before the net profits are arrived at. It is apparent from these figures that storing of foods is an uphill and downhill business with its fat and lean

Asserts New Discovery Brings Blessed Relief To Rose and Hay Fever Sufferers

Can Make It Yourself At Home At Trifling Expense

In spite of all the doubters and scoffers, a man in Kentucky, who changed his annoying and distressing hay fever into less than a mild cold, claims most emphatically that if taken in time hay fever can be conquered or at least made so harmless that it is not even bothersome.

He gave his discovery to scores of other sufferers with the most remarkable results and has recently been prevailed upon to dispense it through pharmacists to all hay fever sufferers who still have faith that nature has provided an effective remedy for this common yet miserable disease.

And best of all this remedy costs almost nothing. Get a one ounce bottle of Mentholized Arcline at any drug store, pour the contents into a pint bottle and fill the pint bottle with water that has been boiled.

Then gargle as directed and twice daily sniff or spray each nostril thoroughly.

That's all there is to it; so simple that a lot of people will say that it can't do the work; but oftentimes simple natural remedies are the best as you will find after using.

If you will make up a pint and use it for a week or ten days you need not be surprised if your unwelcome yearly visitor fails to appear.

PLANS TO GUARD STATE STREAMS

Health and Conservation Officials to Wage War Against Pollution.

INDUSTRIES ARE INVOLVED

Canneries and Other Plants Will be Instructed in Proper Waste Elimination.

Indianapolis, October 10—Plans for co-operation between the state conservation department and the food and drug division of the state board of health in a concerted effort to stop the pollution of Indiana rivers and streams by canning factories and other industrial plants, are being worked out by Richard Lieber, director of the conservation department, and Dr. Harry E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner. Many complaints concerning the pollution of streams have been received recently by state officials, since at this season of the year, when the water is low, waste products cause the death of thousands of fish and are a menace to public health.

An intensive campaign is to be given at once by the two state departments and is expected almost completely to eliminate pollution by next year.

Utilization of waste products in the manufacture of by-products, the use of sieves and neutralizing agencies, and other methods of eliminating pollution are to be explained to the heads of the industries of the state. Representatives of the departments are to address meetings of canners and other industrial associations and no efforts will be spared to give complete information as to how waste products can be used, in many instances, to make a profit for the plants. After this campaign of education has been completed every plant in the state will be expected to give complete co-operation in the enforcement of laws against the pollution of streams. Officials of the fish and game division of the conservation department will keep records of the cases of alleged pollution reported to the department and officials of factories suspected of causing the pollution will be visited by state representatives and methods of eliminating possible causes of pollution will be suggested. Efficiency engineers who have solved pollution problems in other states will be asked to give their judgment concerning difficult cases.

These are some of the plans of the departments for eliminating pollution as explained by John C. Diggs, sanitary engineer for the food and drug division.

If these efforts to assist industrial plants in eliminating the pollution of streams do not meet with full co-operation from the officials of the industries, the police power of the conservation department will be invoked and heavy penalties probably imposed upon all plants found to be causing pollution.

Mr. Lieber will insist that pollution of the Indiana streams be entirely eliminated. "Canning factories and other industrial plants," said Mr. Lieber, "must quit using public streams as sewers."

Officials of the conservation department have been very active recently in enforcing the law against the pollution of streams. George N. Mannfeld, superintendent of the division of fish and game, has instituted prosecutions against several plants alleged to be polluting Indiana streams.

ANOTHER PAY DAY DUE ON OCTOBER 15

Uncle Sam Will Pay Owners of Liberty Bonds a Total of $78,102.00 In Interest.

Another one of Uncle Sam's pay-days comes on October 15.

The statement points out that it is easy to keep the interest at work for the Liberty Bond coupons may be taken to any postoffice or almost any bank and exchanged for War Savings stamps, which are non-depreciable and non-fluctuating.

Following are Uncle Sam's other pay-days this year and the amount of Liberty bond interest it is possible to reinvest in War Savings stamps:

TRAINRIDERS GIVEN CHOICE OF WORK OR COUNTY JAIL

Three Men Arrested by Baltimore & Ohio Detective Fined $1 and Costs in City Court.

Three men were arrested for stealing a ride on Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 2 Thursday afternoon when it arrived in this city by Robert Barkley, company patrolman. The men were placed in city jail and when arraigned this morning in city court were fined $1 and costs each by Mayor C. W. Burkart.

One of the trio had enough money with him to pay his fare to Cincinnati and he was escorted to a train this morning and started toward home after the mayor agreed to suspend the fine if he left the city. The other two men had no funds and their fine was suspended upon their promise to go to work for the construction company that is building the South Walnut street road, which is in need of laborers.

WHIPPINGS WILL NOT INSTILL MORALS IN BOY

Indianapolis Judge Says Lads Should Be Taught to Respect Honest Work.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10—"Don't whip your boy—teach him to respect honest work."

This was the advice given parents by Judge Laehr, of the juvenile court of Marion county.

"Whipping a boy will not instill morals in him," the judge said. "Make the boy realize the need of attending high school. You can't just whip the idea into him. Point out the condition of the man on the streets who passed up the opportunity to obtain an education. In this way he soon will realize that he does not want to be a loafer."

Republican Rally.

Kokomo, Ind. Oct. 10—The Ninth District Republican Rally, is to be held at Athletic park here this afternoon.

MRS. MAY COULD NOT WORK

Made Well and Strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbia, Pa.—"I was very weak and run down and had dragging-down pains and pains in my back. I could not get around to do my work and had to sit down and rest oftentimes today. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers and read the testimonials, so I thought I would try it. Now I am healthier than I ever was in my life, and can recommend it to any woman who suffers as I did." —Mrs. ELIZABETH MAY, R.F.D. No. 1, Columbia, Pa.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, curative influence, and the letters which we are constantly publishing from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of this famous root and herb medicine.

THE NEVER-OLD.

They who can smile when others hate. Nor bind the heart with frosts of fate, Their feet will go with laughter bold The green roads of the Never-Old!

They who can let the spirit shine. And keep the heart a lighted shrine, Their feet will glide with fire of gold The green roads of the Never-Old.

They who can put the self aside And in love's saddle leap and ride, Their eyes will see the gates unfold To green roads of the Never-Old.

OLD CASTLES TO BE RENTED
Structures of Naworth and Douglas Date Back to Feudal Days in Great Britain.

Naworth castle, the ancient baronial seat of the lords of Gilsland, the home of the Howards, earls of Carlisle, is to be let furnished for a term of years. The castle stands in a park of 500 acres to the south of the River Irthing, near Brampton. The original character of this feudal stronghold, first mentioned in the reign of Richard II, remains unspoiled, though it has been modernized as a place of residence. Armor, pictures, tapestry and antique furniture of great value adorn the banquet hall and other rooms. Shooting over ten thousand acres and trout fishing are among the sporting attractions of Naworth. Vestiges of the great Roman wall are still visible in the district, and an occupier of antiquarian tastes could find matter for interesting speculations as to the origin of other features of the countryside near Brampton, including what are supposed to be the traces of a Danish encampment.

Douglas castle, Lanarkshire, is also to be let for a long term furnished, with 40,000 acres of moorland. A loch in the park and the Douglas water afford excellent trouting.—London Times.

Mrs. Clarence A. Goss and her guest, Miss Etta Jones, of St. Louis, went to Medora this morning to spend the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Zollman.

SAYS EVANGELIST
THREW SONG BOOK

was thought of the matter.

"I am quite sure that Mr. Love has misunderstood the incident altogether," said Mr. Borders today. "I noticed him on the front seat and thought that he was asleep and I tossed the book in his direction at the same time shouting 'Wake up! brother. I don't want any of my congregation going to sleep.' The book, I think fell on the floor possibly touching his knees or his feet."

Mr. Borders has been conducting evangelistic services at the Nazarene church the last week with splendid success. His style of preaching is on the order of that of Billy Sunday and his gestures are frequently unusual as well as strenuous. Mr. Borders has served as dean of the Boston College of Oratory and has spoken on the platform with former Governor Hanley on several occasions. Besides being an evangelist he is also an author having written several books, one of which on "Heaven" has had a world wide circulation. He served as chairman of a committee which recently successfully conducted a campaign for $200,000 for the college at Olivet, Ill.

The services at the Nazarene church are being attended by large and enthusiastic audiences.

Mrs. Mary Sarber spent today in Brownstown on business.

Bevins Plumbing Company Ready to Start Work on "White Way" as Soon as Streets Are Cleared.

Claude Carter, member of the "Great White Way" committee has received assurance that the Interstate Public Service Company will have a force of men here the fore part of next week to start the work of removing the electric light poles on Second and Chestnut streets to give way for the new lighting system to be installed in this city.

W. L. Clark, manager of the Bevins Plumbing Shop, that has the contract for the new lighting system, stated this morning that the work of spotting places for the new light posts would be started just as soon as the Interstate Company can get the poles that are to be removed out of the way. Providing the weather is favorable, Mr. Clark expects to have the system installed within forty-five days after the work is started. Cold weather will not interfere with the progress of the work but it was stated that it would be impossible to work on the new lighting system on rainy days.

An interesting meeting of the Seymour Grocers' Association was held at the city building Thursday night. A representative of the State Grocers' Association was present and addressed the local grocers on the importance of a larger state organization. In his talk he urged the grocers to get closer together and do away with all ill feeling that might exist between one merchant and his competitor.

Two groups of officers of the State Grocers' Association are touring the state in the interest of organizing associations in all of the counties and bringing the grocery merchants closer together.

LAW MAKERS WANT A LITTLE VACATION

Congressmen and Senators Have Strenuous Time During Special Session.

CONFRONTED BY BIG ISSUES

Expected That Vote on League of Nations Will Come Before First of November.

Washington, October 10—Congressmen and senators who have been in Washington during all the special session which began May 19 are very anxious to get a little vacation and rest before the regular session in December at which so many serious questions must be settled. The reconstruction congress has even greater problems to solve than the War Congress had. An effort is being made to rush through by November 1 as much pending legislation as possible so that a recess of four weeks may be taken.

The League of Nations has occupied the center of the congressional stage so long that the audience is becoming decidedly wearied. The people of the country are demanding that the League question be settled at once, and it is confidently expected in Washington that the final vote will be taken by November 1. The President's illness may retard action somewhat as the democratic leaders desire his counsel when the reservations are taken up. The amendments will probably be disposed of by the middle of October and the reservations will be considered next.

Railroad legislation is still in rather indefinite shape. House and senate committees are working on various plans, but no bills have been reported out. In view of such important pending legislation, it is doubtful whether the President will follow his announced policy of returning the railroads to private operation by January 1.

Three important measures are now before congress and will probably be enacted shortly: The bill for enforcing prohibition; bill restoring pre-war rate-making authority of the interstate commerce commission, and the bill to penalize hoarding and profiteering.

The Indiana senators and representatives entertained with a dinner at the Shoreham Hotel the following honor guests on the evening of October 7th: Edward Wasmuth, Republican state chairman, Col. George Lockwood, publisher of the National Republican, Carl W. Riddick who succeeded Miss Rankin as representative of the second district of Montana, and who is generally referred to as the "gentleman from the Fourteenth district of Indiana." Mr. Riddick was formerly secretary of the Indiana republican state commission.

It is both interesting and pleasing to note that statistics show a great reduction in crime in the city of Washington since the dry law went into effect on November 1, 1917. The records show fewer cases of non-support, a great decline in cases of intoxication, and a general decrease in crime with the exception of the race riots which had little or no connection with liquor. The inability to buy liquor has served to keep undesirable classes of people off the streets after midnight.

Congressman Benham has a limited number of Agricultural Yearbooks for 1918 which he will be glad to distribute to parties requesting copies.

Additional Social Events.

ENTERTAIN LIGHT BEARERS.
The Missionary Society of the Central Christian church entertained the members of the Light Bearers Band and their mothers, Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. The following program was given:

Song—"Bringing in the Boys and Girls."
Sentence prayers for mothers and babies.
Welcome to the Light Bearers..Mrs. Bobb.

Responses to Welcome..Mrs. Carroll.
Little Light Bearers Welcome..Mrs. Keach.

Roll Call and presentation of certificates of membership.

Song—"Jesus Bids Us Shine."

Several exercises were given by the children. One was the lighting of candles, a large one representing the missionary spirit and a small pink candle for each child, expressing the spirit they share in the cause. The children were then divided into two groups, one group with lighted candles, representing the white children, and the other group with unlighted candles, signifying the foreign children, who were given lights.

A social hour was held following the program and refreshments were served. The hostesses were Mrs. Harry Bobb, Mrs. R. R. Keach and Mrs. Sim Turmail.

EUCHRE PARTY.

Mrs. M. Fox, Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. M. Heffernan, Mrs. Peter Richard, Mrs. Charles Kaufman and Mrs. James Quinn were hostesses at a progressive euchre party given Thursday evening in the K. of C. Hall. Fifteen tables were at play during the evening.

COLUMBUS MAN IS SEEKING LEADERSHIP IN THE FOURTH

Julian Sharpnack is Candidate for Republican District Chairman
Dr. H. Lett Mentioned.

Julian Sharpnack, of Columbus, has announced that he is a candidate for the Fourth district Republican chairmanship. The announcement is of interest here inasmuch as friends of Dr. H. Lett, Republican county chairman, are urging him to get into the race for the same position.

Relative to the announcement of the Columbus man the Columbus Republican says:

Julian Sharpnack, a member of the law firm of Kollmeyer & Sharpnack, of this city, and an active Republican politician, today authorized an announcement of his candidacy for chairman of the fourth congressional district for his party, to succeed Bert Morgan of Greensburg, the present incumbent.

Mr. Morgan it is understood will be ineligible for re-election by reason of his intention to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for treasurer of state. Mr. Morgan has proved himself a capable and successful district chairman, in that the fourth district, for many years solidly Democratic, was wrested from that party and swung into the Republican column at the last election, when Lincoln Dixon, of North Vernon, as the Democratic candidate for congress from the fourth district, was defeated by John S. Benham, Republican.

The candidacy of Mr. Sharpnack for the district chairmanship will no doubt be received with general approval among the Republicans not alone of Bartholomew county, but throughout the district as well. Mr. Sharpnack is now the Republican chairman for Bartholomew county and from a Republican standpoint the county did herself proud at the last election by electing most of the county and township officers, much of which was due to the excellent political leadership of Mr. Sharpnack, as county chairman, who is a hustler and knows the ways and means of political success.

So far as is now known Mr. Sharpnack is the only candidate for the Republican district chairmanship. The election of a new district chairman will be held next spring, following the nominating primaries and the reorganization of the county central committees of the district.

Charles H. Wagner, of this city, is the Democratic chairman for the fourth district and when asked today if he would be a candidate for re-election, he replied that he had given the matter little thought, but that he felt now that he would not be a candidate. He added, however, that the time is long before the chairman is to be chosen and in the meantime something might transpire to cause him to change his mind.

TURN ROTTERDAM INTO AN ARMY BASE

Dutch City Looks Like New York Since Americans Entered Area.

By CORP. DAVID RAMZEUR.

(In the Chicago Post.)

Rotterdam, Holland.— Rotterdam, supply depot for the American army of occupation in Germany, is "the New York of the A. E. F."

At Maashaven, the left mouth of the Rhine, on the outskirts of Rotterdam, American soldiers erected their barracks and at a wharf near by American soldiers and sailors unload the supplies for the American army of occupation in Germany. Squat tugboats, with their little Dutch household aboard, puff up and down the Rhine towing the long, narrow barges built for the canals of this little country, with their loads of supplies for the Yanks who are keeping the watch on the Rhine. And down the Rhine come some of the lucky doughboys whose time has expired and who are starting for "God's country."

Rotterdam Now Bustling Port.

In every direction in Rotterdam are signs of a busy, bustling new world port. Huge derricks and traveling cranes, big grain elevators, long strings of concrete and cast-iron docks and wharves, networks of tracks and here and there a shipyard resounding with the clatter of machinery and the "rat-tat-tat" of riveters.

The shops are a wonder and a delight. They are marvels of cleanliness and trim, neat, attractive tidiness. The grocery stores are as scrupulously clean and orderly as a big operating room in an American hospital and one has to look twice to discover whether a grocery store is indeed a grocery or a first-class drug store.

But the thing above all that makes us call Rotterdam the New York of the A. E. F. is the fact that wherever one walks in the uptown districts one sees American articles for sale and American apparatus and machinery in use. For instance, walk down Hoogstraat (which, by the way is not Hog street, but High street). It is the Broadway of the New York of the A. E. F. On it are tobacco and cigar shops that would put to shame the big jewelry stores of many American cities; confectionery stores that are a little bit of fairyland; bakeries and groceries that fairly glisten with nickel, brass and glass; clothing stores that look like one of the corners of Forty-second and Broadway.

Walking along past those stores one sees popular brands of American tobacco and cigarettes; American phonographs, American sewing machines, American chewing gum; one stops in front of a big music store and sees displayed in the windows all the more or less late American songs and "jazz" and "rag" music.

There are dozens of American automobiles on the pretty drives and American motorcycles "put-put" by with their muffler cut out, just as they do in America.

Favorite "Ham and" to Order.

In a little cafe or restaurant the soldier orders the great American favorite—ham and eggs—from a waiter who speaks good English and who will probably tell of the cities in America where he has worked, and the "guldeens" will be rung up on an American cash register and in half the places an American typewriter will be found near the register. Rotterdam has its "Great White Way" just like old New York. In the cabarets are mighty clever entertainers and girls who can "rag" just as well as some of the girls back home.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Willett, corner of Brown and Broadway street, Thursday, a son.

FIGHT TO FINISH IS CHICAGO'S BALM

torious Cincinnati pitchers were hit hard on his second appearance. Gleason's pitchers were a disappointment, with the exception of Dickie Kerr, the Texas youth who

LOVES HER COWS AND CHICKENS AGAIN

"I have had stomach trouble for twenty years and for the past year have eaten nothing but stale bread and drank hot water. Was too weak to do any kind of work. Six weeks ago I took the first dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and am now doing all my housework besides looking after my chickens and milking two cows every day. Mine has been a wonderful recovery." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At Druggists Everywhere.

went into the series almost unknown and emerged with two of the Sox victories to his credit. Ciedite's double failure was unexpected by close followers of the game, though he pitched excellent ball on his last two starts. It might be fairer to charge his mates with responsibility for his second defeat, since they failed utterly to hit behind him. His third game fully justified the faith of his friends.

Claude Williams was, in a way, the hard luck pitcher of the series. Though he hurled two four hit games, he was forced to accept defeat both times and on a third trial he was batted from the box. Williams was responsible for his own downfall in his first game however, as he walked every Red who scored.

Hod Eller of the Reds shares with Kerr the honor of being the only pitchers to register two victories. Furthermore, each pitched one wonderful shutout game. No finer pitching than theirs has been seen in a world series. Kerr won his second start through gameness under punishment and his mates' timely hitting. Eller's second game was far inferior to his first, and without the terrific Red attack that pounded out 16 hits for ten runs, he would have lost.

Eddie Roush carried away the fielding honors of the series. Two of the finest catches ever made in a world series were turned in by the speedy Cincinnati. His diving catch of Liebold's drive in the ninth inning of yesterday's game was a wonderful piece of work and possibly saved the game for the Reds. The Sox were coming fast and had Liebold's drive got away it might have proved the break the Sox were fighting for. Roush covered worlds of territory in every game. He played half of the other outfields as well as his own. He proved conclusively his right to be ranked with Speaker as the best fielding gardeners in the game.

With Kerr, Joe Jackson shared Chicago's highest honors. The big southerner proved that he is as good a player under the strain of the big series as he is during the season. He hit when hits meant runs; he led his club at bat, and he delivered the only circuit smash of the series.

The eight game series proved a great strain on the players—and on the fans as well. There is already considerable agitation in favor of returning to the shorter program that prevailed before this year. Seats went begging at the last games in both Chicago and Cincinnati, which some persons hold is a fair indication that public interest cannot be maintained through more than seven games in spite of the class of baseball played.

Magnates and players alike reaped unprecedented financial returns from the long series. Never before has the players' cut been so great nor have the magnates and others connected with the game banked such receipts. In addition, players of the second and third club in both leagues will be handed tidy sums.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Pomeroy, North Pine street, have received word that their daughter, Miss Nora Pomeroy, who underwent an operation Monday morning at the Homeopathic Hospital, Washington, D. C., is improving. Miss Pomeroy is a yeowoman employed with the Navy Department in Washington.

Mrs. Willis Whitson left today for a two weeks' visit in Louisville, Bowling Green and Lexington, Ky.

ALLENBY AND HIS MOTHER

The return to England of Field Marshal Lord Allenby, the conqueror and deliverer of Palestine, was made the occasion of a big celebration. He is here seen with his aged mother, to whom he hastened as soon as possible.

Hats in the Commons.

Among the changes noticeable in the house of commons is the absence of the hat when members are in the house itself. Formerly hats were universally worn when members were seated or in the lobby; that marked them out from the others. Now nearly the only members who still retain their headgear—both glossy silk topers—are Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Frederick Banbury. Both make great play with it. Sir Frederick raises his hat when a minister answers one of his questions or when in the fencing phrase he is "touche" in debate. The chancellor of the exchequer takes his off when he rises to speak and puts it on the table in front of him, and when listening to a speaker sits with it well forward over his eyes and his feet planted high up on the side of the table.—London Morning Post.

Strange Burial Ceremonies.

A Chinese cemetery located in Chicago differs from other cemeteries by the fact that it contains a curious looking altar and large incense burner. The ceremony attending a burial is quite interesting. Roast pig, chickens, rice puddings, etc., being left on the grave of the deceased Chinaman. After ten years burial the graves are opened and the bones removed, scraped and thoroughly cleaned. They are then packed into small lettered boxes and sent back to China. For the Chinese believe that there can be no rest for their people if left buried on a foreign soil. So the bones are sent back to China.

No Room to Complain.

An Irishman was recently traveling in a train accompanied by a minister when two very stout old ladies entered. They placed themselves one on each side of Patrick and he was much crushed between them. The minister, on seeing Pat so placed, remarked:

"Are you quite comfortable?"

To this question Pat quickly replied:

"Sure, sorr, Oi haven't much room to complain."

A Maid and a Mouse.

A friend of mine went to call on his best girl. The door was opened by the maid, who was quite pretty. Just as he stepped inside the door, a mouse ran across the hall, whereupon the maid screamed and threw her arms around him. Just then his girl's mother came in from the street. He afterward told me that for a minute he thought he would die with embarrassment. Fortunately both the girl and her mother accepted his explanation.

END OF FLIRTATION.

Jack (bitterly):

I suppose you consider it quite a triumph to make a fool of a man.

Edith: Why, no. A triumph means something accomplished that was very difficult.

Why?

I've often tried to figure out just what can be the reason A fellow gets spring fever Right in the busy season.

ELWOOD PARTY NOW CONVINCED OF TRUE VALUE

Relief Gained Gives Lewark The Highest Confidence in Trutona's Merits.

Elwood, Ind., Oct. 9.—I. E. Lewark, an employe of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Works, who lives at 529 South D Street, Elwood, is among the many residents of this city who are today publicly praising Trutona, the perfect tonic.

"For the past four months I have been suffering from stomach, liver and kidney troubles," he said. "I had severe pains in my stomach most all the time, and I often experienced pains in my side and back. I seldom rested well at night. My appetite was very poor and the little I ate caused me trouble afterward. Headaches bothered me frequently. In short, I was all tired out and generally run down.

"The pains in my stomach and also in my sides and back have been greatly relieved by Trutona. And I can now get a good night's rest, too. My appetite has improved wonderfully, also, and I don't have the bad after effects from eating that I formerly did. The tired, draggy feeling is gone and I feel stronger now. I know Trutona is relieving my ailments and I know it will do the work that is claimed for it."

Trutona is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and bowel troubles, catarrhal complaints, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and the like as well as being a splendid reconstructive agency.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Seymour at W. L. Federmann's Drug Store.

CHAPTER IV.

The Wicked Flee.

I confess I was frightened when I thought of the diamonds and only two women alone in the house—apparently—to guard them, but Mrs. Delario was terrified.

"These stones"—she looked about the room despairingly. "Where can I hide them? And we two women alone in the house—"

Again the ring—a long, long rattle; whoever it was meant to get in. Followed a pounding on the door.

Mrs. Delario, though deathly white, was now composed and ready to meet the emergency, whatever it was. Mechanically she slipped the elastic over the box and rose.

"I'll go to the door," she decided. "It's better to see who it is, anyway. Perhaps it's only a district messenger. If it isn't—if it should be officers—" they might break in the door."

And with that she whisked up her skirt and tucked the box down into her stocking.

I had risen and was preparing to follow her out, feeling she might need me, but she turned and said for me to wait behind the door out of sight and listen.

She left me. I heard the front door open just as the pounding began again. She asked, "What is it?" and a man's voice answered, "Does Eugene Delario live here?" She said he did, and demanded what was wanted of him. The man's voice said, "I must see him at once."

And then, to my amazement, I heard her tell the man, "I'm sorry, but you can't—tonight; he's sick in bed."

"I rather think I can see him, then," was the retort. "And I will."

There followed, well, not quite a scuffle but a very active shuffling of feet, and the man pushed his way into the house in spite of her, pushing her aside from the door, which he shut with a bang and a "Now, then." Sensations began to trickle down my spine.

"In which room is the young man sick?" demanded the voice.

"I tell you you can't see him—I refuse to let you go upstairs. What right have you forcing yourself into my house this way and demanding to see my sick son?" she asked angrily.

"Now, lady, be reasonable and I'll show you," he replied in a tone meant to conciliate. I heard a rattle of paper.

"A warrant!" she gasped.

"That's what," he said. "Want to see my badge?" There was a slight rustle as I assumed he showed it to her, for she gasped, "An officer—a warrant!" and seemed to sway on the stair.

"Now, lady," he began, still conciliating, "you don't want to make any more trouble for yourself than's necessary. I got to do my duty—and it ain't always pleasant—but I got to do it. It ain't my fault if I got to arrest your son—I ain't doing it to spite you, nor him—he didn't steal any diamonds off me, you know—"

"Steal any diamonds!" she interrupted. "He never stole a diamond in his life. Never!"

I fancied the man shrugging as he answered, "So much the better for him if he didn't steal them—I'm sure I hope for your sake he didn't, though it looks bad, him trying to sell them to the very parties that knew all about them."

"Oh!" and I could see her clinging to the banister. She was evidently at a loss what to do.

I understood in a flash what had happened—this man or an accomplice was the one who had followed her son home from the Maiden Lane dealer's yesterday. He evidently thought he was making headway, for he went on.

"Now see here, lady, you take it from me—the parties that are pressing this case don't care for publicity any more than you do—or your son does. It would ruin him if it got into the papers, to say nothing of his serving time for it—"

"Serving time! My God!" broke from her involuntarily.

"Of course he'll serve time if it's proved on him," her visitor assured her.

She gave a sob. I was wrought up. It was all I could do to keep my place and not join her and help defy the man; but his next words held me

"If he'll give back the stones he showed yesterday, or tell where he's hid them, I can get this settled out of court and nobody will be the wiser—if you don't say anything. See?"

"It isn't true!" she cried. "My son never stole a cent's worth of anything in his life."

"Here's the warrant."

"Arrest him if you will, but the law will prove him innocent—if there's law in the land, and I sometimes doubt it."

"But hadn't you better talk to him first? It won't hurt to hear what he has to say, and if it can be arranged on the quiet—"

"I shall not talk to him! Do you think I would insult my son by asking him if he stole diamonds?"

Followed a silence. Then the man's voice, "Well, if you won't I suppose you won't. But you'll regret it."

"I won't."

"Then I'll have to do it myself. Which room is he sick in?"

"The third floor back—but you can't go up," and she planted herself across his way.

I saw his hand reach out and remove hers from the banister and as he passed her she sank on the lowest step and began to sob. I may have counted six when Mrs. Delario whipped into the seance room, my coat on her arm.

"Quick—you must go," she whispered. "You must hide my diamonds." I gasped and asked, "How?"

"While he's upstairs trying to get into a locked room."

She was dragging my coat on my arms and saying at the same time, "It's a fake—that man isn't an officer."

"I Knew It Was Coming—Hurry—Hurry!"

I knew it was coming—I saw it clairvoyantly when Eugene came home. Hurry—hurry!"

"But suppose—" I began.

She cut me short. "You can! He doesn't know you're here—he didn't see you. You can get away while he's breaking in the door and looking for Eugene. I'll have time to telephone the police. Only go—go immediately—before he sees you."

She whisked up her skirts as she spoke, pulled the box out of her stocking and thrust it in my hands. "I can't," I felt I simply couldn't take the responsibility.

"But they're mine—I swear to God they're mine," she cried, evidently thinking the man's words had convinced me that the stones were stolen. "They're all I have in the world. If they're found by these scoundrels they'll be stolen from us. Don't you see it? That man's a thief."

From upstairs came the noise of pounding on doors and the words, "I know you're here, so you may as well open the door."

I held the box, too paralyzed to know what to do, but Mrs. Delario had her wits about her if I didn't.

"Put it in your stocking and run," she commanded. "Quick—your stocking."

And I whisked up my skirt, even as she had done, and stowed the diamonds in my stocking.

She pushed me out of the seance room ahead of her and we tiptoed to the vestibule. "Run," she whispered. "I'm going to scream for help as soon as you're out of sight."

In her hurry to get me off she almost pushed me down the steps. Then she snatched off her thin slipper, and the last glimpse I got of her as I turned the corner showed her ramming it into the crack of the front door to hold it open.

What she did next she told me later, but I may as well put it in here. I was out of sight when the man blustered up to where she stood in the open door, looking up and down the street for somebody to call.

"You may as well tell that young man of yours," growled he, "that if he don't let me in I'll break the door in."

"I don't think you will," she said calmly. "Now go."

"Not till I get what I came for," he said, taking hold of the door and trying to move it and finding it mysteriously wedged open.

"Well, you'll not do that this trip," said she with spirit. "He isn't there—and he wasn't there. He was in the sitting room at the end of the hall"—she pointed to the seance room, the door of which he could see stood open—"and while you were trotting upstairs he ran out for a policeman. If you don't believe it wait and see for yourself."

At that the fellow seized her arm and tried to pull her back into the house and shut the door, but found it still wedged open, he could not see with what, as he was on the inside. But the moment he laid hands on her she began to scream, "Help! Help!" as loudly as ever she could.

He didn't wait to see what happened—as a matter of fact nothing happened, for there wasn't a soul in sight on West End avenue when she screamed.

"I'll have a squad of police here myself to 'help' you if that's what you're after," he flung back as a parting threat when he bolted down the steps and disappeared around the same corner that had just hidden me. But that was the last she heard of him that night. She pulled her slipper out of the crack and shut the door. Then she went all to pieces and had a cry.

As for me, when I left the house, I crossed the street, turned south and into the first cross-street I came to. It seemed as though everybody knew I had a million dollars in my stocking and was just waiting to nab me, or hand me over to the next policeman.

But as nothing happened I became a little more coherent, though I had the feeling I was being followed all the time, yet I couldn't spot my shadow. My whole energy of mind was bent on giving my pursuer the slip. When at last I spied a subway station I jumped off the car, made a bolt of it for the stairs, rushed past the ticket chopper, throwing a nickel into his box, boarded a train that fortunately proved to be a north-bound express; got off at the next station and took a local; got out and took another express and got out for good when the guard bawled, "Huddn-forty-five," walked round the block where I live, and when there wasn't a living soul in sight ducked into the front door of my apartment house.

The elevator was rattling down from upstairs but I didn't wait for it. I tiptoed up the stairs, the descending elevator drowning the sound of my steps. I let myself in, put up the chain-bolt and took a long breath. Then my knees suddenly crumpled up under me and I went all to pieces in a heap.

It was almost two o'clock before I found strength enough to undress, and I was so dazy I could hardly get my clothes off. While I was doing it I had brief thoughts of keeping on my stocking and taking the diamonds to bed with me; but I decided no—there's a limit to one's obligations in a case like this: if burglars come to burgle—and have you ever noticed how very near a burglar feels when you have a million dollars in the house?—I'll let them burgle. I'll not help, but I'll not hinder; life is too uncertain at its best. So I set the box on the edge of the dining room table, conveniently, where burglars who were looking for just such a shabby little box filled with diamonds couldn't fail to see it the instant they jimmied the front door off its hinges, or got in from the fire escape, or crawled up the kitchen dumb waiter, or came down the gas log into the fireplace.

And then I went to bed—and slept, expecting to find that box exactly where I put it.

HOOSIER STATE AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION KEEPS "TRAIL BLAZER" BUSY ON ROADS

Indianapolis, Ind.—"Hurrah!" says the motorist—"Look at the road sign and pole marking work being done by the Hoosier State Automobile Association." Twenty-nine cross state highways they have organized and marked during the past two years, and now a man and road posting car from headquarters at the Claypool Hotel, Indianapolis, is being sent over these roads to finish marking a few unmarked sections and see that all turns are well marked along the routes from terminal to terminal.

To supplement the pole marking work and the ten thousand metal signs and various special wood signs put up by the Motor Clubs in the H. S. A. A., a guide posting law was fostered by the Automobile Association, as a result of which the state is making high grade steel signs now at Michigan City and supplying to the counties at cost.

The heavy steel sign, giving mileage and shown in the foreground of the above picture, is a sample of the work being done by the state. These signs can be read easily at night as well as in daytime on account of the drilled in aluminum finished letters. County commissioners can have a survey of their county made free of charge by request to E. J. Fogarty, Warden of the Michigan City State prison. These signs are to be paid for out of the automobile license fees and citizens generally should urge their county commissioners to buy these signs NOW, because all auto license fees go to the State Highway Commission fund after January 1, 1920.

The purposes of the Association are to encourage and foster legislation looking to the improvement of road and all motoring conditions and to prevent class legislation against the auto; to put up danger and direction signs and other markings to protect and guide the motorist; and in all ways serve the motorists as the state's attorney serves the people. One of the important services rendered the automobile owner by the organization is the installation at state headquarters of a reliable Touring Department, which keeps on file the latest data on road conditions everywhere.

The Association is supported by membership dues of public spirited men entirely, and any member automatically becomes a member of the American Automobile Association and its nine hundred affiliated organizations throughout the U. S. The officers and directors of the organization are as follows:

Lesson 2 October 12 Fourth Quarter

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FISHERS OF MEN

Mark 1:14-20

GOLDEN TEXT.—Jesus said unto them, come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL.—Matt. 4:18, 22; Luke 5:1-11; 14:15-24; James 5:19, 20.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Helping others to know Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter and John become workers for Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—The work of a disciple.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Ways of winning men to Christ.

I. Jesus Preaching in Galilee (vv. 14, 15).

The reason why he changed from Judea to Galilee was the growing opposition to him. The fate of John the Baptist he accepted as foreshadowing his own death. The rejection of the forerunner meant the rejection of him whose advent he heralded. Prudence moved him to a more remote region, where he would attract less attention and be free from opposition. Besides this it gave less favored people an opportunity to hear the gospel, according to the prophetic word (Isa. 9:1, 2). It foreshadowed the gospel to the Gentiles.

1. What he preached (v. 14). The gospel of the Kingdom of God, which meant the good news of the near approach of the Kingdom of God, when the rule of God as predicted by the prophets would be realized. It should be carefully noted that the gospel of the Kingdom differs from the gospel of the grace of God.

2. How he preached (v. 15). (1) "The time is fulfilled and the Kingdom of God is at hand." This meant that the time had now come for the appearance of the Messiah and the establishment of his kingdom. (2) "Repent." This meant that the people should turn around, change their minds and attitude toward Christ the King and accept him as their King. This is a message which needs to be sounded out today. People should be called upon to repent of their sins. (3) "Believe the gospel." Then, as now, men need to believe the gospel of Christ's death for their sins and resurrection for justification (1 Cor. 15:1-4; Rom. 4:25).

II. Jesus Calling Disciples to Become Fishers of Men (vv. 16-20).

1. Who were called (vv. 16, 19). Simon and Andrew, John and James, two pairs of brothers. It is usually best to render the Lord's service in fellowship—in pairs. This is not only necessary for effective testimony, but for needed fellowship on the part of workers and protection of the witnesses. These all had previously been called to Christ for salvation; they had become his disciples (John 1:36-42). They are now called to service. This is always his way. We are first called to be disciples, then called to have fellowship with him in service.

2. From what they were called (vv. 16, 20). They were called from positions of definite service. God always chooses his servants from the ranks of the employed. The lazy man is not likely to have a call.

3. To what they were called (v. 17). To be "fishers of men." They no doubt had been successful fishers. The qualities which made them good fishermen, namely, patience, bravery to face the storm and night, and perseverance which led them to toil all night, though no fish were caught, would make them good fishers of men. It requires patience, bravery and perseverance to win souls for Christ.

4. Their call to obedience (vv. 18, 20). To obey meant sacrifice, painful separation, to give up all business interests and leave their father behind. Regardless of the cost, they yielded prompt obedience. They gave up business and home, not even inquiring as to where their salaries were to come from. They put their trust in him who called them, believing that he was able to supply all their needs.

5. Their reward (v. 17). These four men have wielded wondrous influence in the world. Their names have become immortalized. Had they remained at their business they would only have been humble fishermen. When Christ calls let us promptly obey, for eventually it will pay.

JESUS IN PETER'S HOME.—Mark 1:29-39

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

TESTS TO BE HELD FOR ENUMERATORS

a month or more in rural districts. Rates of pay vary, depending upon the locality and character of the district to be canvassed. The average pay for each enumerator for the census of 1910 was $70. At the coming census it probably will be not less than $100. Generally speaking the minimum pay will be $4.00 per day and the maximum compensation $8.00 per day.

Applicants must be not less than 18 nor more than 70 years of age. It is desired to interest as many men as possible who have been in the military or naval service of the United States and their dependents, the wives, mothers or other immediate relatives of "service men."

There will probably be one supervisor appointed for each voting precinct in the city and in the larger townships, while in the smaller townships the supervisors will have charge of one or more precincts.
